peas. Hix just starts with a ham stock, Bareham uses smoked streaky bacon plus a pork knuckle or two trotters, and Davis, lamenting the wider availability of said hocks, makes it easier for her readers by going for bacon lardons on the basis they're "cheap, nicely fatty easy to cook with [and] give the soup a smokey savouriness". (Why must it be so hard to find the two main ingredients of such a simple British classic?).

Surprisingly to me, 82.4% of respondents had not suffered a concussion (14 participants), 11.8% had suffered 2 concussions (two participants), and only one person had suffered one concussion. This tells me that gear in youth sports is more protective which is extremely important because it means we are getting closer to concussion prevention in adolescent sports and that could soon transpire to professional sports. It also tells me that fewer students from a sample of the student body play contact sports that have a heavy concussion rate.
