On September 18, 2007, a few months before he lost his battle with cancer, Pausch delivered a speech entitled Last Lecture: Achieving Your Childhood Dreams to an audience of around four hundred people. One can appropriately evaluate the effectiveness of Pausch's last presentation by examining the seven key elements of communication. "Know thy self" is the first key element of communication which states that communication is personal. The part of Pausch's lecture that affected me most deeply on a personal level was in the beginning when he talked about his childhood dreams.
