As a football player at De La Salle, Toomer was selected as a Parade All American and a USA Today All USA player.[5]Toomer enrolled at the University of Michigan in 1992 and played college football for the Michigan Wolverines football teams from 1992 to 1995.[6] As a freshman and sophomore in 1992 and 1993, he started only three games (two in 1992 and one in 1993) and was principally used as a backup to the team's 1 receiver. Derrick Alexander.[7][8] Toomer caught 16 passes for 238 yards in 1992 and 29 passes for 565 yards in 1993.[9]As a junior in 1994, Toomer did not start any games for Michigan, as Mercury Hayes was the starting flanker in all 12 games.[10] Despite technically being a "backup" to Hayes, Toomer in 1994 broke Jack Clancy's single season Michigan record with 1,096 receiving yards.[11][12] With Todd Collins at quarterback, Toomer was the 1994 Wolverines' leading receiver with 54 receptions for 1,096 yards, an average of 20.3 yards per reception.[9] Toomer also finished the season as the Big Ten Conference's leading receiver with an average of 93.9 receiving yards per game.[12] He had a career high 179 receiving yards, including touchdown receptions of 46 and 38 yards, in the Wolverines' 1994 season opening victory over Boston College.[9][13] He also returned a punt 72 yards for a touchdown against Illinois.[14] Toomer was a finalist for the Biletnikoff Award in 1994 and was selected by both the conference coaches and media as a first team wide receiver on the 1994 All Big Ten team.[12]As a senior, Toomer finally became a starter, starting 12 games at split end for the 1995 Michigan team.[15] However, Toomer was routinely double teamed in 1995,[16] opening the way for Mercury Hayes to lead the team in both receptions and receiving yardage.
