I went to rehab, NA/AA meetings 5 times a week, out patient treatment and Drug Court which included being tested 3 times a week. In addition I was placed on probation for 10 years with my company which includes random UA and breathalyzer testing. If I fail once within those 10 years I LOSE MY JOB!.

But defying the odds, New England posted three road playoff wins to advance to Super Bowl XX. In their victory over the Patriots, the Bears set or tied Super Bowl records for t—shirts sacks (seven), fewest rushing yards allowed (seven), and margin of victory (36 points). At the time, New England broke the record for the quickest lead in Super Bowl history, with Tony Franklin's 36 yard field goal 1:19 into the first quarter after a Chicago fumble. But the Patriots were eventually held to negative yardage (19) throughout the entire first half, and finished with just 123 total yards from scrimmage, the second lowest total yards in Super Bowl history, behind the Minnesota Vikings (119 total yards) in Super Bowl IX.

According to Cote, a player who tests positive for a hard "street drug" such as ecstasy or cocaine will likely have to enter the league substance abuse program for about a month. But a player who tests positive for THC, the primary intoxicant obtained from cannabis, will only receive a call. Either way, the test results aren't revealed publicly, whereas a positive result for performance enhancing drugs would be.
