2. Gary Sanchez, Yankees Sanchez' sophomore campaign justified the hype he created over the final two months of 2016. His 33 home runs led all catchers by a significant margin and was the most in a season by a catcher since Javy Lopez' 43 in 2003. It would be an ignominious end to an otherwise legendary oos career. Who will win the A League premiership? Sydney FC remains the team to beat, with Graham Arnold on the brink of a dynasty but only if the Sky Blues can keep him away from the oos helm!What will be the headline of the year? Les Miserables: oos slump to World Cup shocker vs. France Mike WiseWhat will change from 2017? After Richmond's stunning 'small ball' gamble that paid such incredible dividends not to mention the Western Bulldogs' similar strategy in 2016 rival clubs will increasingly look to stack their front halves with small and medium sized forwards who focus on pressure and tackling. Key position forwards are still a long way from extinction but they may be edging closer to the endangered species list if this trend continues.What will remain constant? The pressure on Nathan Buckley.

The story relays his texts to the mother after the incident where he states how bad he felt after spanking his son and that he stick to time outs in the future and hope the spanking stuck in the kids memory. "Now, I didn't read the article; I saw it when I was driving," McCoy said in the video. "I understand they're probably going to say he's done a lot for civil rights and everything, and maybe he has. Maybe whatever he was trying to do, with civil unrest, maybe African Americans being treated wrong, or not equally, and some of that's right.

Rugby has a fraction of the injuries of Football. Part of it is the rules of the game (blocking is a foul, so there aren really any blindside hits) but the protective equipment is definitely a big part as well. At the professional level where you use any advantage available, the protective equipment just engenders a recklessness of throwing your body into contact, and assuming the pads will protect you.
