The body tasked with organising the World Cup, the Qatar 2022 Supreme Committee, told the Guardian that work had yet to begin on projects directly related to the World Cup. However, it said it was "deeply concerned with the allegations that have been made against certain contractors/sub contractors working on Lusail City's construction site and considers this issue to be of the utmost seriousness". I think there's a lot of really good points here that will definitely make the game much better for next year. At the end of the day EA is going to do whatever EA wants and probably not listen to any of this. While a renegotiation and extension is not possible, three year contracts can be extended. The CBA is very specific about the allowable raises in extensions: up to 120% of the player's salary in the season before the first new year of the extension or 120% of the estimated average salary, as long as neither number goes beyond a player's maximum salary. Since Dinwiddie will make his minimum in 18 19, the pertinent figure is the estimated average salary, the same structure as the four year, $42 million agreements for Josh Richardson and Norman Powell last off season.
