Look, let common sense settle in here. The NFL used to allow head slaps to offensive linemen by pass rushers, and helmet to helmet hits by defensive backs on receivers without batting an eyelash. For crying out loud, Darryl Stingley was paralyzed by one of those hits in a preseason game, and the NFL did absolutely nothing to stop them at that time.

Like every game, soccer has rules. Now, in the soccer essay, we will discuss the rules. The game is played by two teams in a big field covered with grass. Playing in Canada wouldn help there. This discussion is just about maximizing value on when to come out and I don disagree with Florio there, but taking a year off cannot help too much. NFL franchises might question his love for the game.

But mock drafts can still be an interesting exercise to examine scenarios of how the NFL Draft could play out for each team. The quarterback carousel is always the juicy storyline during the NFL offseason and that is true again this year. The first domino is Kirk Cousins and where he could possibly sign.

Please don't let the comparisons fool you this is no one trick pony. I say this because alot of people will read this and just think that Jon Scheyer is a three point specialist like Reddick. No!!! Scheyer has a much better all around game. I disagree. Regardless of how bad your division is that is one of the motivating factors of winning your division A home playoff game. I understand sometimes teams with better records gets hosed but this is just looking at their record.
