He had an inspiring story away from the field. Van Noy had some problems in high school that almost kept him from attending BYU. Once he was enrolled at BYU, the special environment of the school gave Van Noy life changing experiences that has made him a role model for many.

A top rated high school recruit, Kabongo was known for having supreme quickness and strong leadership capabilities that had many feeling he would be a first round pick. After an inconsistent freshman season (where he still showed flashes of upside), his sophomore campaign was cut short by an NCAA suspension. While the suspension did appear to be unfair and left next to no character concerns, it unfortunately gave him very little time to show the improvements he had made.

First, there exists more passion in college football all around the sport. Passion cannot be measured in anyway but can be observed and understood by the fans, coaches, and sports community. Players care more about the game and less about money, while the fans have great passion for the university they attend or attended.
