Browns owner Jimmy Haslam already promised Hue Jackson that he would be returning for 2018, and he seems to be standing by that promise. After the Browns lost to the Steelers 28 24 on Sunday to fall to 0 16, Haslam once again reiterated his support for Jackson, who is now 1 31 in two years with the Browns. CBS Sports NFL Insider Jason La Canfora reported that Elway "went back and forth on the decision" before eventually making the call to keep Joseph on Monday.

New York Jets: If you live in New York but also enjoy being grumpy, then maybe the Jets are for you. Their head coach Rex Ryan brags about his guys more than a mother at a PTA meeting, but they still haven found a way to win. Every year they overhaul the roster and Ryan makes a new set of promises, only to yet again come up short.
